Protest Routing of Freeway

Tales OF TWO CITIES

CITRUS LOSS

The one-third county citrus loss estimate may be a little too high for the West End, Arthur J. Reeder, manager of the Liberty Groves operating company thinks (or hopes.)

Mr. Reeder said this morning that estimate, which has been issued by county agricultural officials, covers the whole citrus producing area of San Bernardino county.

Losses were heaviest, he believes, in the Redlands, Colton district and somewhat less severe here. If the 33 percent guess proves accurate on a county-wide basis, the West End is likely to get off somewhat lighter than most parts.

Nobody will know for sure for awhile yet, however.

TOO MODEST

It has come to our attention that Upland is altogether too modest a community.

Although the city limits to the west actually extend to Central avenue on both sides of Foothill, the 'Upland city limits' sign along that thoroughfare is to be found at the spur railroad track near Benson avenue.

Although we're not necessarily recommending that Upland emulate Los Angeles in the matter of city boundary signs, there seems no point in claiming less territory than the municipality actually contains.

City officials have made a note, however, and the oversight will presumably soon be corrected.

Council Hits Putting Road All in Upland

City council has never approved routing of the Ramona freeway totally on the Upland side of the so-called boundary route. To do so will mean the loss to Upland of a 300-foot strip of land entirely through the city, and a consequent deduction from the tax rolls.

Aroused to action by these facts, council last night directed the city clerk to communicate with the state highway department to learn the status of the project.

Newspaper stories from Sacramento are the only basis of action, councilmen said. The city's governing body has had no communication for the highway department.

According to press dispatches, the state was supposed to have received the concurrence of local officials in their action.

Councilmen said last night they had participated in only one meeting on the subject, and that an unofficial one. The only plan discussed then, they said, was to straddle the boundary line, with half the super-highway in each city.

The highway commission was said to have taken the action because fewer property owners would have to be dealt with in routing the road through Upland, exclusively.

In their letter to highway officials, council will recommend a return to the original plan of sharing the roadway between the two cities.

Councilman E. Tweed Stone said several complaints had already been received from the the property owners concerned.

A 150-foot strip, it was pointed out, would remove only one tier

To Punish 'Game Hog'

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Assemblyman Thomas M. Erwin, Puente farmer, is gunning for the game hog—the nimrod or fisherman who takes more than the legal limit.

In the face of a rapidly increasing population, California fish and game stocks cannot stand this extra drain, Erwin declared.

He said two bills introduced in the assembly yesterday were designed to curtail activities of the game hogs and chiselers.

One would prohibit shipping of pheasants, ducks, geese, quail, doves, bandtail pigeons, rainbow trout, eastern brook, cutthroat, Lochleven and Dolly Varden game fish. In other words, Erwin said, it prohibits intrastate shipping of fish and game.

He explained that this is designed to keep hunters from taking two or more limits in a single day. Under present regulations, Erwin said, the game hog works it this way:

He goes out in the morning and shoots a limit and brings it in and ships it home. Out he goes in the afternoon and gets another limit. This can be shipped the first thing in the morning and he's ready for another shoot and his third limit in less than two days.

There have been instances of where hunters have shipped several limits in one day by taking them to different towns.

In the Imperial Valley this past dove season, Erwin said, 1000 limits were shipped out from one to five stations.

Police Academy Starting Monday

Upland police officers, reserve officers, members of the highway patrol, and sheriffs from San Bernardino sub station will attend a police academy in Upland starting Monday.

The school will be conducted by the Federal Bureau of Investigation, five evenings a week, and will continue for two weeks.

About 50 students are expected to attend. Principal theme for the school will be command and administration problems. It will aid preparation of leadership in conditions of emergency and disaster in addition to providing advanced study for local officers.

Tomorrow morning five Upland police officers will receive a test in aptitude and perception, as a means of checking their present development and future needs, it was reported by Chief of Police Eugene L. Mueller. Aspects of civic and governmental functions will also be taken up with the men, he said.

Anybody Got Some Paint Remover?

How does one clean 20 gallons of white paint off the roadway? That question had the Upland police stumped for just a little while this morning after an accident involving a truck and a car occurred at 8:15 a.m.

Paul Adams, 56, RFD Red Hill, Cucamonga, was cited for making an improper turn and failure to yield right of way after his 1940 Chevrolet coupe caused Archie Smith Moraigh, 43, 136 W. Foothill, Cucamonga, to collide with his car.

Moraigh was driving a 1940 Chevrolet panel truck. Adams was headed west on Arrow Highway and attempted to make a left turn on Second at the same time Moraigh was driving east on Arrow.

No one was injured. Both cars sustained damages. The paint was spilled from Moraigh's truck. He is co-owner of a paint store in Cucamonga.

They'll Do It Just to Be 'Neighborly'

Strictly as a 'neighborly gesture" Upland city crews are going to move George V. Decker's garage seven feet.

The garage must be moved to comply with the setback provision of the city building code. Mr. Decker told council last night his building had been oked by the city building department representative and that he didn't think he should have to stand the expense of moving it.

He suggested the building inspector who oked it be assessed the cost.

City Attorney Henry Busch took a dim view of that, however. It is the responsibility of property owners to know where their lot lines are, and to learn what building restrictions apply, he said.

Mr. Decker told council he has poured a seven-foot concrete floor at the rear of the garage. Council agreed to be helpful and lend the man-power needed to put the structure on its new foundation.

Citrus Loss Is Now Estimated 15 to 25 Percent

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Southern California's multi-million-dollar citrus crops suffered a 15-25 per cent loss in the record three-day freeze, the federal frost warning service estimated today.

On the brighter side, the service, headquartered at Pomona, reported that temperatures neared normal today. For the first time in four nights, the mercury was too high to damage crops. And higher temperatures are forecast tonight.

Meantime, federal aid is sought for growers, whose losses are estimated at $25,000,000 to $60,000,000 in the worst cold wave in 35 years.

The Los Angeles city council urged the Reconstruction Finance Corp. to extend loans to stricken growers. Mayor James Pettit of Pomona asked President Truman to grant a three-year moratorium on accumulated farm debts incurred before Jan. 1.

Complete reports may not be in for two weeks, but damage estimates already approach $10,000,000 for citrus, $5,000,000 for vegetables and more than $10,000,000 for cut flowers.

As a result of the losses, prices of oranges, lemons and grapefruit are rising. At a New York auction yesterday, oranges were up $1.10 to $7.41 per crate and lemons were up $3.64 to $10.30 per crate. Field crop prices also are reflecting the damaging freeze.

Ground Breaking At Sewer Plant Set For Today

G. E. McQuatters, chairman of the sewer commission, will be in charge of proceedings. Ontario Mayor Roy D. Boles and Upland Mayor Eugene Nisbet will be present, as well as other officials of both cities.

Predicts Job, Production Marks Will Be Set During Coming Year

By Sterling F. Green

WASHINGTON, (AP)—President Truman today forecast new job and production records in 1949.

He acclaimed the halt of the long price rise as the welcome signal of an approaching "stable" prosperity, not of an oncoming depression.

His annual economic report told Congress that the "fair deal" program he laid before it Wednesday is a two-edged weapon of government—that it is "anti-depression" as well as anti-inflation.

Mr. Truman fixed these national goals for the year: another million-man increase in employment, to a yearly average of 60,000,000 civilians at work; and another 3 to 4 per cent boost in production.

Production last year was reported, in the dollar value of all goods and services poured out, at the historic high of $252,700,000,000. But the gain which Mr. Truman wants is in terms of actual goods and services, with the dollar inflation squeezed out.

Consumer Income

The President's report showed that personal income in 1948 was $211,000,000,000. He said consumer income rose about in proportion to the climb in consumer prices.

But he declared that profits are swollen to "excess" and that "dangerous inflationary forces" still imperil the economy. Backing up his eight-point request for control legislation, he told the Democratic Congress in a report that went first to the House:

"We need to have available a range of governmental measures which can be applied as a brake or as accelerator according to the need."

His proposed $4,000,000,000 tax increase, to be drawn mainly from corporation earnings, can be applied "without unduly interfering with prospects for continued business expansion," Mr. Truman said.

Conciliatory Tone

The report was notably more conciliatory toward business than the state of the union message which, 48 hours earlier, stressed the inflationary hazard and failed even to mention the price declines of recent months. Today's message had this reassurance:

1. "It is possible that we may not, in fact, be forced to use such controls" as the standby price, wage and allocation powers he wants on the law books.

2. The tax policy "should be flexible and should be promptly adjusted to the changing needs of business and consumers"—an implied promise to lower rates again if a recession hits.

3. Price ceilings, if they are invoked on key materials, will be selective and not the "general or over-all price control of the wartime variety." Any legislation should encourage voluntary price cuts before ceilings are

Economic Program At A Glance

WASHINGTON, (AP) — Here, in summary, is the nation's economic picture — the record, the outlook and the recommended shifts—as presented by President Truman in his economic report to congress:

The Goals

Employment — 60,000,000 civilian jobs, as against 1948's record-smashing average of more than 59,000,000.

Production — A gain of 3 to 4 per cent, about equal to last year's.

The Outlook

Prices — The overall rise is at a "welcome" halt; but "dangerous inflationary forces" persist in steel, power and other fields.

Wages — They can rise in some industries without forcing inflationary price boosts. They rose irregularly last year.

Cost-of-Living — Preliminary figures for December indicate it is still declining slightly.

The Record

Consumer Income — It hit a record $211,000,000,000 last year but, offset by price rises, brought "no appreciable gain" in real income.

Profits — Another record, $21,000,000,000 after taxes. Mr. Truman said they are too high.

The Recommendations

A rpeeat of the "fair deal" program he handed Congress Wednesday: A $4,000,000,000 tax increase, falling mainly on business; an eight-point control program including standby price-wage and allocation controls; rent control for "at least two more years"; a 1,000,000-home public housing program; a social program embracing higher old-age insurance benefits, 75-cent minimum wage; and a long-range farm program.

Warren Meeting Resistance On Continuing Crime Group

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Signs increased today that Governor Warren will have trouble getting the legislature to renew his commission on organized crime.

An informal poll among state assemblymen disclosed widespread objections to the idea. It may be enough, in fact, to threaten the Governor's program, at least under its present form.

Nobody at the capitol takes exception to the commission's goal of ferreting out the underworld.

Some legislators complain it duplicates the functions of the attorney general and the state department of justice. Other critics frankly side with Attorney General Fred N. Howser in his smoldering feud with Warren, who once held the same office.

Political Duel

Whatever the outcome, the showdown between the Warren and Howser forces promises one of the hottest political duels of the 1949 session.

The 1947 legislature authorized Warren to create five special crime commissions to study "various phases of criminal justice in our state". These groups are now writing up their final reports. The Governor intends to discharge them before July 1.

However, he has indicated he wants to extend the life of the commission on organized crime. It was this commission, headed by Retired Admiral William H. Standley, which broke the Ukiah slot machine payoff case. The trial led to prison sentences for Wiley H. (Buck) Caddell, former undercover agent for Howser, and two others.

Surrender

In his message to the legislature Monday, Warren said failure to continue the work of the commission "would be a complete surrender to the underworld". And, he added, it would be "an invitation to racketeers, crooks and gangsters everywhere to prey upon the people of our state."

City May Buy Land

To obtain land needed to expand the city yards, council is considering purchase of property at 132 North Campus avenue, which includes a building formerly occupied by the Hydronics Corp.

The asking price is $26,500. Council has scheduled an adjourned meeting for next Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock to reach a decision.

In the meantime, they hope to learn what prospects if any there are for renting the building, presumably to a manufacturing concern.

The property is owned by O. E. Hirschler. He was represented before council last night by realtor G. T. Redmon.

Complete Paving Two Streets

Paving has been completed on two streets in Ontario, it is reported today.

San Antonio avenue from California boulevard to State street, and from Fifth street to north city limits has been completed. Second paving job completed is D street, from San Antonio avenue to Mountain avenue.

3-Year Mortgage Moratorium on Citrus Proposed

SACRAMENTO (AP)—A three-year mortgage moratorium for agriculturists hit by the past week's freezing weather will be asked of the legislature Monday by Assemblyman Thomas J. Doyle, Los Angeles.

He said today he is preparing a bill to make that provision for south state areas where crops have been ruined by the cold.

Thief Steals Items From Car

An unidentified thief stole various items from the car of Mrs. Buck Hamrich, 762 Ontario boulevard, last night as it was parked in front of her home.

A battery, clock, jack, lug wrench and other tools were taken from the 1934 Ford at 10:30 p.m. The items were valued at about $25.

APRIL SHOWERS, IT SAYS

The theater marquee advertises "April Showers" but the weather has no relation to it in this snow-choked Northern Nebraska town of Atkinson. Passers-by, left to right, are two high school students, Helen Engler of Stuart, Neb., and Mercedes O'Connell, Atkinson, and Arthur G. Miller, of Atkinson. The blizzard, in its third day in Nebraska, has paralyzed transportation and stranded hundreds of train and bus passengers.—AP Wirephoto.

Anti-Smudge Petition Gets Signatures, Says Brown

Everett Brown, Ontario realtor, said today he has initiated a petition to the state legislature against smudging, and that hundreds of local people are lending their support.

At the same time, he made public a letter, which he said will be sent to Southern California newspapers.

The letter is as follows:

Endangers Health

"Year after year in Southern California the health and safety of the public has been endangered by having sooty-smokey oil laden air forced upon it by an industry that has helped to make California great and famous. Namely, citrus. But there are other industries and businesses whose activities affect the daily lives of our population. These must conform to the laws and regulations governing their activities.

"This citrus industry, of which I have been a part, has been allowed to go on season after season with ruthless disregard for the health and property of the public. Inasmuch as there are at least three major methods of equipment for frost protection available to the citrus and vegetable industries which are called 'smokeless' and are very effective in operation, it seems to me that the few who are not using these methods should not be allowed to continue to inflict such enormous damage upon the general public.

Smokeless Method

"Many of the ranchers have converted to the cleaner 'smokeless' pots or wind machines, and I certainly am in sympathy with the rancher who goes all out to protect his crop and investment. Having owned 20 acres of citrus myself I know the worry and sleepless nights that a grove owner spends hoping that a few high clouds will form over his grove so the temperature will rise. I know also that groves

ERUPTING MAUNA LOA AWESOME SIGHT FROM CIRCLING PLANE

ABOARD AN AIR FORCE B-17 OVER MAUNA LOA, HAWAII (AP)—Three hot streams of lava cascaded down the steep slopes of Mauna Loa today. The big volcano erupted violently late yesterday.

The fiery flow, pouring from the snow-capped mountain, is moving in three streams estimated to be 12 to 15 miles long down the western slopes.

If it maintains its present pace and direction, said air force Capt. Orval D. Collings of Los Angeles, it will reach the west coast of the big Island of Hawaii slightly north of the town of Keokea sometime today.

Unless the flow is blocked or slowed, the coast highway will be cut. Keokea is about 20 miles west of Mauna Loa's summit crater.

The molten lava is bubbling from 50 to 200 feet into the air. Steam and smoke pillar up from the crater.

Volcanologist R. H. Finch said there was little danger to life and property at the present. The crater summit is 32 miles from Kona, resort and fishing town on the west coast, and 38 miles from Hilo, on the east coast.

The crater is a raw, red scar searing the snow-crested dome of 13,680-foot Mauna Loa volcano.

Fountains of fire gush several hundred feet into the air from the crater.

A flaming stream bubbles and dances the length of a deep gash running three miles across the crater floor.

Pillars of smoke soar upward from this gigantic cauldron. And over the western rim, a river of red hot lava slithers down the long, gentle slope of Mauna Loa toward lights twinkling on the seacoast 30 miles away.

Artist and Lecturer To Be Featured At Upland Woman's Club Meeting

Lela O'Melveny, artist, lecturer and creator of Historical Headgear in Miniature, will be the guest speaker at the Upland Woman's club meeting to be held Tuesday afternoon. The program will begin at 2 p.m. following a 12:30 luncheon.

Miss O'Melveny will bring a glimpse into the past by her valuable collection of miniature hats, replicas of those worn through the ages.

From the day, when as a small child, Miss O'Melveny fashioned a fairy bonnet of hollyhock petals, rose, pink and lavender, and lined it with delicate green moss, she has never lost her love for creating hats. Years later she took up the profession of millinery, but she never gave up her hobby of making tiny hats, over a hundred of which she displays when she lectures.

There is in her collection the replica, in miniature, of the first brimmed hat and Oriental turbans dating before Christ; head coverings of Biblical characters; caps of gold, dazzling with jewels; 13th century ecclesiastical pearl headdress; ancient and modern wimples; and hats made famous by beautiful women in ancient, medieval and modern times.

The fabrics, jets, jewels and rare laces have been gathered from all over the world and compare as nearly as it is humanly possible with those described in history. The collection is valued at $10,000 and represents more than 25 years of research.

4. Private enterprise is the nation's prime reliance "for economic results," aided by a "vigorous government and the mutual respect and trust that we all hold for one another."

Rent Control

The President demanded rent control extension "for at least two years." Today's legislative recommendations follow in the main his Wednesday program, with this additional tax proposal:

Some new excise taxes "may be desirable," along with the rise in corporation, gift and estate levies and the possible boosts in middle and upper bracket income taxes. But the oleomargarine tax and some others "should be repealed."

Mr. Truman also asked extension of the law under which steel and other scarce materials are allocated to vital industries by voluntary industry agreement—a point he failed to make in Wednesday's request for compulsory controls and priorities.

Liberty Groves Thanks Citizens

The thanks of the Liberty Groves operating company for assistance received during the recent cold spell was expressed this morning by Manager Arthur J. Reeder.

His statement is as follows:

"I want to take this opportunity to express my sincere appreciation to those citizens of our community who so faithfully and willingly helped our organization through the recent cold spell. Our special thanks go to the packing houses, the employment bureau of Ontario and the labor camp for sending men to us; also to those business houses of Upland which were such a help in meeting our emergency.

"We were not able to save all of the crop, but our loss would have been much greater had it not been for your wholehearted cooperation."

Protest Routing Of Freeway

of lots on either side of the boundary line. Placing the tract solely on the Upland side would cut into a second tier.

City Manager R. G. Manley said he did not know how much would be cut off the city tax rolls if the plan goes through, but he estimated it would be "in the hundreds of dollars".

The state will not reimburse the city for this loss, he explained.

Approve Plan

Council has approved plans of Joseph Horvath to erect a 47-foot long building on a vacant lot just north of Jack's cafe on North Second avenue.

Variances permitting building the structure without ingress and egress at the rear and without offstreet parking are necessary before the building can be put up.

Council gave its okeh for those. The planning commission must be consulted, however, before final approval is given.

Mr. Horvath explains he intends to erect his shoe shop in one part of the building and to rent the other two rooms to other businesses.

Zoning Change

Council gave final approval and the city attorney was directed to draw an ordinance for a zone change from A-1 to C-4 on land laying north of Foothill boulevard between Mountain and Central avenues to a depth of 150 feet.

Whether they're connected or not, Upland householders are going to start paying the 50c a month sewer service charge on January 1, 1950.

An ordinance amendment embodying this is to be drawn by the city attorney. City Manager R. G. Manley said records are incomplete as to how many persons are actually connected to the sewer.

Instead of City Treasurer Owen Atwood clipping the coupons on bonds held by the city as security against deposits in local banks, a trustee is henceforth to be employed to do it.

The bank and not the city will stand the cost. City Attorney Henry Busch told councilmen this is necessary to protect the treasurer against personal liability in event of loss and to forestall the city's having to purchase a "returned securities" bond.

TALES

night that there are no records of exactly how many houses here have connections to the city sewer lines.

The matter becomes pertinent because the city is preparing to assess a service charge against all householders who are hooked up.

But Mr. Manley says many houses—he doesn't know exactly how many or where they're located—were connected some 30 years ago without the city ever having been informed.

It's possible, he added, that some householders don't even know that their sewage goes into the city lines and not into a cesspool.

MARCH OF DIMES

One of the most important fund drives of the year will open Jan. 15 throughout the county. It's the annual March of Dimes campaign for the benefit of infantile paralysis victims.

The county-wide goal is $40,000. Chairman Walter J. Sullivan announced that all organizational reserve funds were exhausted in battling the dread disease in the county last year.

HEART ATTACK

COTTONWOOD, Ariz. (AP)—Victor Fleming, 60, veteran director of "Gone With the Wind" and mentor of many of Hollywood's best known players, is dead of a heart attack.

Upland Teacher Named Treasurer Of Camp Group

Louis Moore, Upland Junior High shop instructor, was installed as treasurer of the Association of Private Camps of the Southern California Campers association last night at the group's annual dinner in Hollywood.

The new office carries with it a director's seat in the organization.

Moore directs his own summer camp for boys at Big Pines and has been active in this type of work for about 10 years. The campers association is interested in maintaining high standards for both private and social welfare camping groups which serve many California youth each summer.

Children's Show To Be Given January 14th

The famed Clare Tree Major children's theater of New York will give a performance of "Pinocchio" at the Upland Elementary school auditorium on January 14 at 2:30 p.m., and not on January 15 as previously announced in this paper.

Educator Talks To Lions Club

Willard Bartlett, noted educator, who recently returned from Japan, was the speaker at the luncheon meeting of the Upland Lions club yesterday noon.

Mr. Bartlett was in charge of education while with the 34th army. He stated that the military situation has made Japan a friendly nation.

Marshall Quits, Acheson Named

WASHINGTON, (AP) — Secretary of State Marshall and Undersecretary Lovett resigned today and President Truman named Dean Acheson to head the state department.

Mr. Truman announced the action at a news conference. He said he is appointing Budget Director James E. Webb as undersecretary of state.

The changes are effective Jan. 20 when Mr. Truman will be inaugurated as president for his new term.

At the same time, President Truman denied, emphatically and in detail, a published story that he is engaged in a fight within his cabinet to soften U.S. policy toward Russia.

At his news conference the chief executive asserted there is no change in this country's foreign policy.

Without Foundation

He said the article, by Jay Franklin in Life magazine, is without foundation in fact in nearly every instance and paragraph.

Sewing Class Is Opened

Practical sewing instruction is now offered in adult education sewing classes meeting on the Chaffey campus and in Fontana, the Chaffey college adult education office reminded women of the district this week.

The Fontana class meets Wednesday nights 7 to 10 p.m. in the Fontana Jr. high school, with Mrs. Eva L. Myers as teacher.

The Ontario group meets Monday and Wednesday nights 7 to 10 p.m. in the Chaffey Home Economics building, with Mrs. Mary Higgins as instructor.

Both teachers are well qualified, the school announces, and new members are invited to register in each community by enrolling with the teacher at a regular class session.

These classes do not teach tailoring, it is emphasized, but deal with the practical, fundamentals of home sewing. Special attention is given repair of garments, darning and mending, alterations and the following of patterns.

Mothers desiring to cut clothing down to smaller sizes will receive individual assistance. And if there are small children who might otherwise be left at home without care, there is no objection, the school has indicated, if they are brought to the class.

Members of the sewing groups bring their own work and materials, working with the aid of the teacher during the class period. Sewing machines are available.

Master Sgt. Samuel Ray Adams, 31, of Muroc airbase, pleaded innocent and innocent by reason of insanity in the shooting of Richard, four, and Samuel, Jr., seven, Aug. 29.

Tangier Is Knee Deep In Corny Intrigue

NEW YORK—The thing I love best about the city of Tangier, in the international zone of Spanish Morocco, is its B-movie melodrama. The very second I stepped ashore there recently, we were up to our ears in sinister doings so corny they would have been rejected by a shilling shocker.

"The countess," said my friend George Greaves, the Australian, in tones he uses for deepest conspiracy, "'as disappeared aw'y. They threw 'er overboard, they did, off that big bloody yacht."

In Tangier, when a person disappears, it means he's likely to be back some day. But when he disappears away, that does it. He is likely at the bottom of the sea, with his feet tied to a chunk of iron.

The Countess Magda of Andurain, a middle-yeared French lady of uncertain antecedents, had come to Tangier in a yacht "Djellan", with two ostensible Belgians, man and woman, named Poncini. Their business was vague, but everybody's business is vague in Tangier. One day, the Countess turned up missing, and the Poncinis flew the coop.

Hushed Up

The business was hushed up for awhile, and then mushroomed into an orgy of fine French journalism. The Countess's son was on the scene, and he wrote daily hyliners that raised the hair. Son Jacques put on so much Gallic dog with his prose that it took him 17 paragraphs before he mentioned Mama's mysterious disappearance.

The glamorous Magda, it appears, got around. She wanted to go to Mecca once, so she married an Arab. The Arab got scragged, after the Countess had no further need for him.

Back in Paris, a cousin, Raymond Clerisse, was poisoned under circumstances clearly indicating the countess had a hand in the medicine chest.

The Paris cops tried to nail her, but couldn't find enough evidence. But as Junior points out, with becoming poignance, the inspector remarked: "If Madame Andurain didn't croak Clerisse, who did?"

Sonny-Boy, or Jacques, wrote proudly that his chere maman had been accused of 22 separate crimes, and was called by the police the greatest criminal brain of the epoch.

Smuggling

Says Junior: "After this series of boredoms, mama's reputation became that of an adventuress. He said that she decided to come to Tangier for the limitless possibilities in smuggling gold, cigarettes, and other valuable trinkets.

"Ma Mere let herself to take a project which reunited the advantages of sportive adventure and solid commerce."

Well, sir, old Magda stocked the yacht with powdered gold and the two Belgians, and in she sailed. While she was lining up her contacts, she disappeared—and, with charming Gallic neatness, on the anniversary of the day when Cousin Raymond got himself empoisoned. When she was no more to be seen, the town buzzed. The two Poncinis ducked the Spanish frontier guards and disappeared.

Junior, who describes himself as a "globe-trotteur", was indignant when they dragged him back from a fishing expedition. The fishing was good, and it seemed to annoy him that mama had spoiled his holiday. But once he got going on the typewriter, his indignation gave way to honest ham. He dragged in hystery, allegory, economic notes, meteorology and opinion. He wrote about mama's vanishment with the passionate ardor of a fish-peddler describing a carp that got away.

When I left Tangier for Spain the other day, mama's corpus delectable hadn't risen from the deep, but the Poncinis had been matched in Casablanca. They confessed to giving her the deep six, after a fight in which she was hurled down the stairs and "opened up her head". The Poncinis turned out not to be Swiss at all, but Germans. It was delicately hinted that the man, Hans Abel, was an old Gestapo agent. It was a lovely story, and as I departed we were expecting Adolf Hitler and Judge Crater to show up any minute.

Accuse Gas Company

SAN FRANCISCO, (AP) — The California manufacturers association today accused the Pacific Gas & Electric Co. of violating the California public utilities act.

A complaint filed by the association with the public utilities commission charged:

The PG & E has been "and still is, diverting natural gas from public consumers to its own use, about 5½ billion cubic feet having been withheld from the public and diverted to the company's use in the 12 months ended July 31, 1948;"

That the rate at which the PG &E gas department sells gas to its other departments "is far below the rate charged any of its public consumers" and that losses thus incurred have necessitated higher rates to the public.

That the rates charged by PG& E for natural gas furnished all industrial users "have been increased to the point where they now merge with the rates charged residential and commercial consumers, whereas the service provided is far inferior;" and

That the company's gas department "has been, and still is, producing sufficient revenue to provide a rate of return in excess of 8 per cent, and that such rate is excessive and unreasonable."

The public utilities commission will hold hearings, beginning Jan. 19, on the PG & E gas rate structures.

The President's Speech And What It Means

The President's address to the 81st Congress was delivered too quickly to make it easy to follow thoughtfully during its delivery. Extended comment should only follow a close perusal of the text, and time to think about it.

It proposed a new deal program, as it should, for the President was elected on such a platform. But it showed far more good-will toward the business community than many of Roosevelt's speeches. Conspicuously absent from it was a class appeal.

My impression was that the President's proposals to combat inflation, and the order in which he listed the various measures, were reasonable and designed to use as far as possible automatic and unbureaucratic controls, preeminently over consumer and bank credit, with allocations and price ceilings only in short commodities.

The fiscal policy proposed could have been offered by Senator Taft. the question remains whether that policy is compatible with other measures which the President demanded.

Increased taxation was anticipated on the corporate and high income level.

Despite rumors and trial balloons launched by some of the President's associates and campaign advisers, that the election gave him a "mandate" to alter American foreign and military policy, there was no hint of any such thing in his address. Rather, there was a clear reaffirmation of the policies of his first administration, including a renewed demand for universal military training — which is by no means popular with the rank and file of his followers or the American people.

If organized labor thinks it was chiefly or exclusively responsible for the re-election of Mr. Truman, the President himself does not appear to think so. He directed an exceptionally large portion of his speech to the farm community, going into detail over parity and supported prices, revival of the Commodity Credit Corporation, rural electrification and housing, apparently aware that the break which put him back in the White House came in Iowa and the farm belt. And what he said about the repeal of the Taft-Hartley act and the revival of a modified Wagner act certainly is not abject capitulation to the most fanatical labor leaders.

I do not see how the Communists or Wallaceites can get any comfort whatever out of the President's address, either domestically or in foreign policy, except that all expanded government activities give them a chance to chisel into bureaucracies which need to be more vigilant against such purposeful infiltrations than they were under F.D.R.

The President is committed to an expansion of cheaper medical services to the people of this nation, with which this column is in agreement. He also, unfortunately, committed himself to a demand for universal prepaid insurances and a panel system as a means of achieving it.

On this subject we have written before and will write again. It is odd that in regretting the lack of availability of "medical science" to large masses of the people, he should make a proposal rejected almost unanimously by medical science. We suggest that before Congress passes any bill, it hold thorough hearings, call expert witnesses from countries with long experience of such systems (for instance, New Zealand), and make an extensive study of the matter.

Tiger Opener is Postponed; Panthers Play at Fullerton

The Chaffey Tigers, scheduled to open their CBL campaigning tonight at Pomona, today had their game postponed.

The Pomona school has been closed for the rest of the week because of smudging.

Coach Harvey Shirk's Panther basketeers will initiate OEC conference play right on schedule, however. His club meets the Fullerton Hornets tonight in Fullerton in what should be a scrappy contest.

Only one of three CBL games scheduled for tonight will actually be played, it appears. That's the San Bernardino-Colton contest. The Redland-Riverside mix has similarly been set back because of smudging activities.

First round conference schedules for the college and high school circuits are as follows:

COLLEGE

Jan. 7—Santa Ana at Mt. San Antonio; Chaffey at Fullerton.

Jan. 8—San Bernardino at Riverside.

Jan. 11—Chaffey at San Bernardino; Orange Coast at Mt. San Antonio; Riverside at Fullerton.

Skiing Conditions 'Fair to Poor'

LOS ANGELES, (AP) — The recent freeze has iced ski runs at most Southern California winter resorts, the state chamber of commerce reported today.

Thus skiing will be fair to poor this weekend. However, there is plenty of snow and excellent weather is forecast, with warm temperatures melting considerable snow above 8,000 feet.

JC CASABA TOURNEY IN QUARTERFNAL

MODESTO, (AP)—Two quintets—Modesto and Long Beach—were cast in dark horse roles as the annual state junior college basketball tourney entered its quarterfinal round today.

Modesto upset one of the pre-tourney favorites, Pasadena 61-18, last night, and will clash with defending champion San Mateo.

Long Beach tied the tournament scoring team record with an 82-62 win over Hartnell of Salinas and will go against Stockton.

San Mateo ousted Vallejo 46-35, while Stockton overcame Lassen, 54-45.

In the other two quarterfinal contests today, San Francisco City college, also a pre-tourney favorite, meets John Muir Tech and Santa Rosa plays Grant.

Who'll Take Which Job?

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Oregon's head football coach Jim Aiken is going to Lincoln in a few days to talk about the University of Nebraska's top coaching job.

Aiken said he had talked twice with George (Potsy) Clark, Nebraska athletic director and last Nebraska grid coach, and that Clark has invited him to Lincoln for further discussion.

"I've been well treated and am happy at Oregon, but Clark approached me again and wanted me to go to Lincoln," he explained.

He planned to go to Eugene, Ore., first. Both Aiken and Clark are here attending the National Collegiate Athletic association and American Football Coaches convention.

A former Nebraska coach, Bernie Masterson, is under consideration for football coach at Loyola university (Los Angeles). Father Lorenzo Malone, Loyalo athletic moderator, said Masterson was an applicant. Also reported under consideration is Nevada's coach, Joe Sheeketski, although the Nevada school said yesterday a five-year contract was waiting for him there.

Wilbur Johns, U.C.L.A. athletic director, said last night that the U.C.L.A. coaching job would be filled shortly. He hoped to announce Bert LaBrucherie's successor "within three weeks".

Bud Wilkinson of the University of Oklahoma was mentioned as a possibility but no official source would comment.

Hogan Still Man To Beat

LOS ANGELES (AP)—If you are making book on the chances of any one player in 125 winning the Los Angeles Open three times in succession, you'd come up with a string of figures reading like the distance from here to Mars.

But if you're making book on the chances of Ben Hogan repeating in the Los Angeles Open, trim 'em down, Bud. Away down.

For Blazin' Ben is the man to beat in the 72-hole, $15,000 event launching the gold rush of '49 today at Riviera country club.

Anyway you look at it, Hogan is in the saddle. He not only has won the last two Los Angeles Opens, but he took the U. S. Open last year over the same tough, tournament-tested course. The boys who know are scrambling around for reasons why Ben may not win this one. Among them are:

Hogan hasn't played tournament golf since last October, when he won the Open at nearby Glendale, and may not be razor sharp.

The course is tougher than before, because greens will be lightning fast—a result of not watering them during the freeze of the past few days; the fairways are slower; the weather chillier.

The law of averages.

On the other hand, the greens are just as fast and the fairways just as rough and the temperature exactly the same for the other 124 who seek Hogan's title. And the 140-pound pro is almost invincible in Southern California.

Raiders Defeated By Newman Five

With center Tom Pipkin out on fouls, the Upland Junior High Red Raiders were unable to stop big Allison, Newman center, yesterday and the visiting Fontanans walked off with a one-point, 38-37 victory, in a practice game at the local court.

Upland lead most of the way in the ball game, thanks largely to the brilliant shooting of Freddie Hangca who looped 18 points in the contest.

They had a 19-17 halftime advantage, and had built up a seven-point lead when Pipkin was retired from the contest. That left the club without anyone to cover the towering Newman center. He tipped in the winning bucket 30 seconds before the final gun.

Yesterday's practice game concludes the warmup season for the Raiders. They will open league play Tuesday against Emerson here, then entertain Cal Jr. Republic on Thursday.

Coach Wilson Stone's JVs are visiting Colton this afternoon for jousts with the Yellowjacket C's and D's.

NCAA Reports Progress in Establishing 'Sanity Code'

SAN FRANCISCO, (AP)—The National College Athletic association, embarked on a program to establish a high ethical standard among its membership, heard today that steady progress has been made in the enforcement of its year-old sanity code.

Most of the members are adhering to the code; a few still are ignoring it or violating parts of it, a survey conducted by the association's committee has disclosed.

Clarence F. Houston of Tufts college, chairman of the committee, reporting to the membership, (delivery time, 11 a.m. P.S.T.), said:

"This effort to make the NCAA a regulatory body will not take place overnight. If we can draw any parallel from the experience of other educational associations which attempted to establish ethical standards, we shall be fortunate if we can regard ourselves as successful by the end of a three-year period."

Houston, head of a board which includes Ralph W. Aigler of the University of Michigan and James H. Stewart of Dallas, commissioner of the Southwestern conference, noted continuing violations as follows:

"There are some institutions, and I believe very few, which are paying little, if any, attention to the NCAA or its code. There are others, who by reason of tradition or pressures, size, location or other reasons, are encountering difficulties in the transition period. They appear to be making efforts to put their houses in order.

"The great majority of the active members of the NCAA appear to be conducting their athletic programs on a sound and ethical basis and well within the requirements of the code."

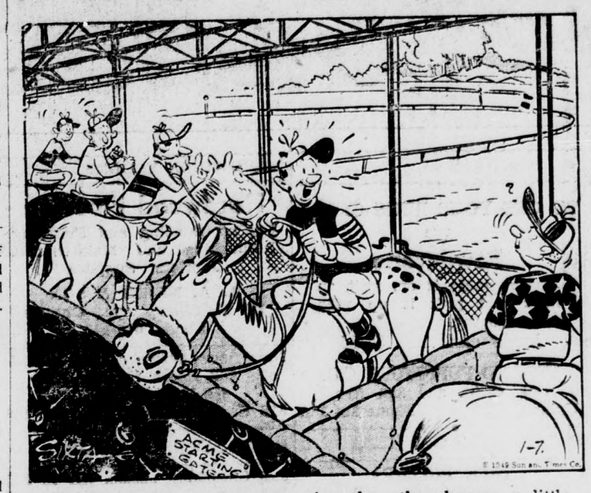

Houston said the committee had investigated about 20 complaints of violations of the code since its founding. "Some of these complaints have proved groundless; others have resulted in the situations being corrected.

WRESTLING IS HIGHLY SCIENTIFIC, BUT IT'S RASSLIN' THAT PAYS OFF

BALTIMORE (AP)—There's wrestling and there's rassling. Which is better?

Apparently it all depends on which side of the fence you're on, college (wrestling) or pro (rassling).

"Blood and thunder are what fans want," claims Ed Contos, promotor of Baltimore's professional rassling bouts.

"Wrestling is more interesting than rassling, which is devoid of wrestling," comes back Coach Sully Krouse of the University of Maryland.

Krouse contends sports fans are missing a bet in overlooking the science offered in college wrestling.

Contos was soured on science in 1936 when he staged a bout between Dick Shikat and Kola Kwariani, a Russian heavyweight.

"A big crowd turned out for that match," he recalls, "but when fans sensed they were to see a legitimate exhibition of science they began to jeer the boys in the ring. Before the contest was over, half the crowd had gone home. That was my last purely scientific venture."

Contos' views were prompted by plans of Ed (Strangler) Lewis, recently appointed commissioner of the pro mat game, to get more science in the game. Contos believes it will be pocketbook poison.

"A hero and a villain are 'musts' in Contos' book.

Krouse had to admit there's more interest in rassling. Even though there's no charge for college grappling bouts the attendance is sparse. Contos makes a living with the grunts and groaners, sham or science.

Pomona Post Inaugurating Ring Program

Headed by a world title match — Sheik Lawrence, handsome prince of Arabia, and the Demon, world champion — the Pomona Post 2018, Veterans of Foreign Wars, starts its 1949 wrestling season tomorrow night at the Pomona VFW arena, First and Gordon streets.

The championship clash will be the top event of a double main attraction, four-bout program that also features such national and internationally known giants of matdom as the Super Swedish Angel, Ivan The Terrible, Frank Gonzales, champion of Mexico, and Red Koko, the smiling Irish favorite, from Kokomo, Mo.

Ivan The Terrible will face the clever Mexican titleholder in the first three-fall bout. It brings together a fellow who relies on sheer strength and ruthless tactics in the "Mad Cossack" and a clever, scientific gripster in Gonzales.

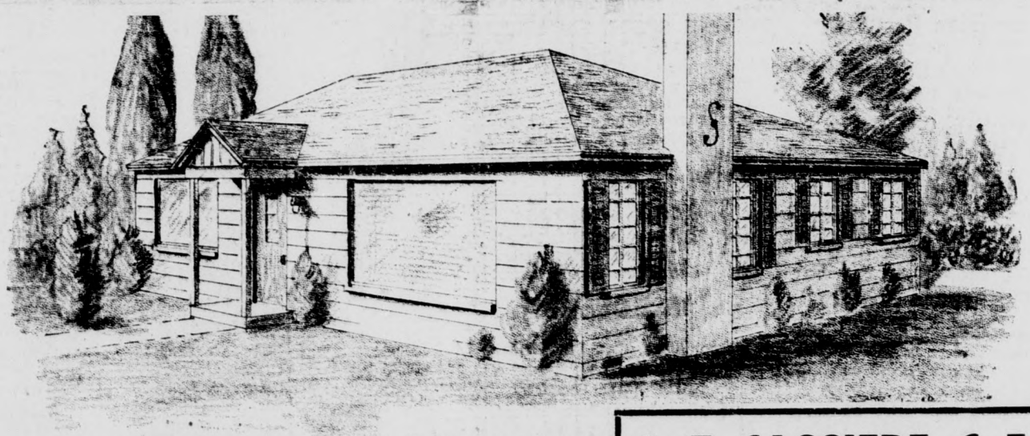

But the bout that promises the most action—and quite likely the greatest surprise will be the championship between the handsome Sheik of Arabia and the famed Demon. Few know the real abilities of either man. It is said that Sheik Lawrence is twice as good as he has shown, but will cut loose now that he has duped the Demon into meeting him. On the other hand no one seems to know just how far the Demon will go with his brutal maneuvers. He has won two matches at the Pomona VFW arena in his only two appearances.

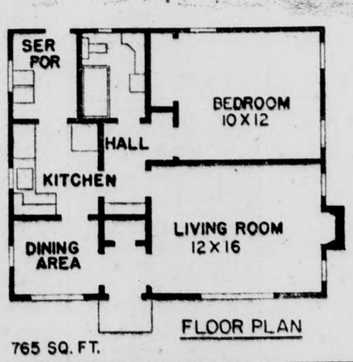

GETS OFFER

GALT, Ontario, (AP) — Mickey Owen, the former Brooklyn catcher who jumped to the Mexican league and drew a five year suspension from organized baseball, may play in a Canadian league next season.

Description and Details of Modern Home Given by 'Chief Draftsman'

The home chosen this week was selected to meet the requirements of a minimum-cost home, and all details in the design have been made with this requirement in mind. The house is primarily planned for a couple needing only one bedroom.

In exterior design the house is conventional and a minimum of corners and extensions have been incorporated into the building to its lowest point.

The shielded entrance leads directly into a hallway that opens either to the living room or the dining area making two separate sections to the house, but not cutting down convenience features. The hall-way has a closet for coats, umbrellas and similar items at the rear.

The living room is in the front of the house and a fireplace is located at the end of the room, where it may be seen immediately on entry, giving the illusion of more space than is actually included in the room.

The picture window in the living room aids in carrying out this illusion.

The large bedroom is reached through a hallway running from the living room. The bath is also located off the same hall.

The dining area, the kitchen and the service porch are all connected to facilitate work in this portion of the house, and every available space has been utilized to keep the individual rooms well suited for their purpose without letting them get too large.

Even though the house is small, 765 square feet, an exceptionally large amount of closet space has been included throughout to give the home owner the same start toward "gracious living" that he would have in a larger house.

● MONEY TO LOAN

MONEY
$25 to $1000
. . for car or home repairs
. . to consolidate debts
on Personal's "PICK-YOUR-OWN-PAYMENT" plan.
It's as simple as A-B-C. Just do this:
A—Tell us how much you need and a few facts about your credit and job — in person or by phone if you're busy.
B—Then when approved you sign without endorsers and get the cash. Proof: 4 out of 5 who ask for a loan, get it!
C—Then repay in monthly instalments which you select to fit your purse.
Don't borrow unnecessarily but if a cash loan solves a problem, get in touch with Joseph Fish, Personal's "YES" MAN, today.
